

COMMUNISM.

The Extent of the Doctrine in the United States.

In the North American Review for May, Professor Alexander Winchell announces his belief that Communist doctrines have taken a deep root in this country, and in the near future will burst forth in all their fury. No legislation can reach the source of the evil. Commenting on which, the Commercial Observer says: It is a fact the man Most draws great crowds whenever he speaks, and we do not hear his doctrines repudiated by the classes he appeals to. Professor Winchell notices the "destructive policy toward moneyed institutions" that exist, the sullen antipathy to the railroads, the recent strikes, etc. It no longer finds vent alone in the mouthings of demagogues. In the Legislature of the first State of the Union we find it predominates. Yesterday an Anti-Convict Labor bill was rushed through the Assembly, which, if enacted, will cost the taxpayers of the State at least $500,000. That is what the majority want. They have been raiding the taxpayers since the beginning of the session. Their hostility to capital and corporations has not been doubted for a moment. There is as much communism in the capital at Albany to-day as in Bloeker and Wooster streets. If no other evidence was at hand the attempt to drive labor out of the prisons would show it.

President Arthur finds a warm admirer in the New York Sun. That paper does not often bestow compliments, especially on Republicans, but it lately made the following friendly allusion to the President:

General Arthur has been President now for eighteen months. His mistakes have not been numerous. His appointments to office have been, with some notable exceptions, satisfactory to reasonable people. Especially in filling the two vacancies on the bench of the Supreme Court has he deserved the gratitude of the country. His advice to Congress has been well considered, sagacious and patriotic. His message of last December contained maxims which might well be adopted as the platform of a party going in for honest and economical government. He tried hard to prevent the worst act of a profligate Congress. He has done more than any other man to make river and harbor jobbery unfashionable. His personal bearing has been dignified and gentlemanly. He has made friends without inviting familiarity. The President stands well with the country to-day. He can proceed with that assurance to the business of amusing himself.

The Indicator says the average rate of charge on the American railways per ton of passengers for a mile is $3.20; the average per mile for a ton of freight was $1.29. The profit made out of carrying a ton of passengers a mile was 80.8 cents; the profit out of carrying a ton of freight a mile was 0.53 cents. These figures are away above the average as returned by the Nevada and Oregon railways.

Charles Bright, the Australian who recently visited San Francisco, has gone back to his home and is lecturing on "The Great Republic—Its Domestic Skeletons." He finds these skeletons to be, (1) the Solid South, (2) the Mormon, (3) the Socialist. The Alta very properly remarks that this is not half our collection of skeletons. We have a lot more which we do not exhibit to foreigners on their first visit.

Congressman Reagan, of Texas, is lying very ill in Washington, and his recovery is doubtful. Mr. Reagan was Postmaster General of the Confederacy, and has been a member of Congress for the past ten years. He is the author of the much discussed "Reagan bill" on fares and freights.

The Pennsylvania Senate has passed to a third reading the bill to prohibit one person treating another. Now we know the Quakers are opposed to "free trade."

Ben Harrison, of Indiana, is as likely to be the Republican nominee for President, as any man yet mentioned. Where can we rake up a Tyler?

GRANT ON LINCOLN.

General Grant's Recollections—Lincoln's Anecdotal Illustrations.

General Grant, in introducing Colfax, who lectured on Lincoln, said: "Ladies and gentlemen—It has been assigned me to present the orator of the evening, who will deliver a lecture upon the life and public services of our late martyred President, Lincoln. It was not my good fortune to have known that eminent man in early days. Although we hailed from the same State, and were citizens of the same State at the beginning of the great Rebellion, yet I never met him until 1864, when I was called East to take command of the Army of the Potomac. I had heard very much about Lincoln and all my prejudices were in his favor. I had heard much about his fund of anecdotes and had heard many anecdotes attributed to him, which seemed to me rather coarse to come from such a source. After my coming to the East I saw a great deal of him. He seemed to love to spend his time with officers of the Army of the Potomac, and was always at my headquarters when possible, and I never heard him talk seriously about anything that he did not illustrate the strong points he wanted to make by an anecdote always appropriate, always clear, always such that might be repeated here or in any society. It is my firm conviction that many of the anecdotes that are attributed to Lincoln were never uttered by him. All that I ever heard were illustrative of the point he wanted to make clear, and I am told that this was his course at the bar as a lawyer. I shall not repeat any of the anecdotes that were told to me for my instruction, but as I came in this evening I was handed a note reminding me of a circumstance that I did not know before, or if I did, had forgotten, and which marks the appropriateness of the date fixed for hearing this lecture. It is very near, only a few days after, the anniversary of the death of the great man of whose life and public services you are to hear of this evening, and it is also the centennial anniversary of the announcement by Washington to his army of recognition by Great Britain of the independence of the Colonies. Ladies and gentlemen, I have now offered more remarks than I am in the habit of making on my feet, for I talk best when sitting, and I will present to you the orator of the evening, a gentleman who for four years was my colleague as Vice President, while I was in the office of President—the late Vice President of the United States, Schuyler Colfax." [Applause.]

The Meaning of "Settlement."

In deciding a contested land case, the Secretary of the Interior makes the following definition of the word "settlement," as used in the Pre-emption Act:

Residence is not essential to a pre-emption settlement. A settler is one who does some act on the land indicative of an intention to claim the benefits of the law. Although the erection of a house and residence thereon may manifest such purpose, in connection with other acts, yet there may be a valid settlement without residence. To fell trees, to plow or fence the land, or lay the foundation for a house, or to do any other act which clearly manifests a purpose to convert the land into a home, will, if followed by residence, give the party a pre-emption right which relates back to its first act. No definite time within which residence must commence is fixed by law. It must, however, be within such reasonable time as to manifest a purpose to comply with the requirements of the law and to retain and not abandon the tract. In such case his right will not be forfeited.

"Call Me Davy."

On a beautiful day in August last a reporter of the Saratogian was offering up Indian incense through the medium of an alleged Havana on the upper deck of the Lake of the Lake on Saratoga Lake. Near him were seated a lady and gentleman, and he probably would not have been attracted to them but for a remark which the fair one made to her attendant: "Don't call me Miss Burr, Judge; call me Addie." The reporter glanced over his left shoulder at the loving couple, and mentally smiled. A moment later the reporter's ear caught the following wave of sound: "Now Addie, don't call me Judge; call me Davy." The newspaper representative, with his usual modesty, turned in his seat and recognized the couple as Senator David Burr, of Illinois, and Miss Adeline E. Burr, of North Carolina, who were united in the bonds of matrimony recently.

The Democratic Platform for 1894.

[New York Sun, April 3]

The free trade enthusiasts are, after all, right in their idea that the true platform for the Democracy in 1894 is a tariff for revenue only, and yet they are but half right, for their idea is but half the truth. It is time to utter the whole truth for them and for all branches of the Democracy, and here it is:

I. A tariff for revenue only.

II. The tariff the only source of revenue.

Alligator skin croquet shoes in the natural leather color, in maroon, terra cotta, all the new colors, and black, will be much worn, with stockings to match the color of the shoe, which also matches the predominating color of the costume.

A GHOST SAVES HIS CHARACTER.

A Spiritual Communication That Did Some Good.

The Carson Appeal says a gentleman employed at a Government institution in that city, and a man who has no learning whatever toward spiritualism, relates the following incident:

In 1858 his father, while treasurer of a local railroad in Massachusetts, died. After his demise the directors of the company found a deficiency in the accounts of the deceased, amounting to eight hundred and fifty odd dollars. The fact was communicated to the family of the late treasurer and the apparent defalcation caused them much grief and shame. In 1861 a noted Boston medium named Mansfield visited San Francisco, creating great excitement by reason of his wonderful performances and he was called on by some of the best people of that city. One day the gentleman above referred to, accompanied by the late Rev. Thos. Starr King, visited Mansfield purely out of curiosity. The former was requested by the medium to write upon a slip of paper the name of any one in the spirit world with whom he desired to communicate. He wrote the name of his father, and without exhibiting it to Mansfield, placed it into a small tin tube which the latter handed him and sealed it in such a manner, with a private seal, that any tampering could be easily detected. Mansfield requested that the tube and the contents be left in his possession for twenty-four hours, after which the gentleman might call for a letter from the spirit world. On the following day the gentleman in question again called on the medium and substantially received this communication from his deceased father:

He informed his son that he was cognizant of the grief which his apparent defalcation had caused the family, but that he was entirely innocent of any wrong, further stating that if a certain book would be examined, which could be found in a stated spot, and opened at a given page, it would be found that the date of the year had erroneously been placed in the dollar column and added up as cash, which would account for the apparent deficiency in his accounts. Although reposing but little faith in the matter, the son wrote East about it, and when he received a reply it was to the purport that the book mentioned was in the indicated place, and on the stated page it was found that $868, the amount of the supposed defalcation, had been added to the cash account by mistake.

FASHION NOTES.

Gloves remain very long. Mitts have very long wrists. Chip bonnets begin to be seen. Jacques are the reigning roses. Every kind of plaid and check will be worn.

The newest coiffures show more of the forehead. Low heeled shoes are de rigueur for small children.

Old rose and garnet make an admirable color combination.

The point in the back is a feature in new costumes and wraps.

The low heeled English walking shoe grows in popularity.

Jet bids fair to be as popular as ever in decorative dress effects.

Old rose and rose boreals are the new names for ashes of roses.

There is a return of favor to button boots in preference to laced ones.

The most daring liberties are taken in color combinations this Spring.

Large buckle or slides are the preferred ornaments of large hats and bonnets.

Ribbon bows and cock's-comb cockades decorate costumes as well as bonnets.

As many as forty-two different colors and shades appear in the new Spring gloves.

A late fancy is to use many jet, gold, silver or jewel headed pins to decorate bows of lace or muslin for evening wear.

Baby and the little girls' caps show the same variety in style that appears in the bonnets of old people. Some have pleated poke brims; others resemble capotes, Panchoas and Greuze bonnets.

THE PICNIC SEASON.—Over in California the picnic season is in full blast. Over there it is "Ho for Santa Cruz!" ho for this place and ho for that. MISCELLANEOUS.

LOC ROLLING.

While Wrestling with a Fallen Tree a Lumberman Receives Consequential Damages.

While on a hunting excursion in the great coal and wood region near Carbondale, Pa., the writer met William Coll, a lumberman. Accustomed to life and labor in the forest from early manhood, he was a true Knight of the Axe. Many a tree had fallen before his ringing strokes, and flocks of rafts had borne away to market the sawed products. Coll is a character and if Oscar Wilde is right in saying that all movements in unadorned labor are graceful, our friend William, stripped for his work, and attacking a tree as Richard I. assaulted the heavy doors of Front de Boen's Castle, must have presented an admirable picture.

One day, however—but let him tell the story himself, as he told it to me: "I was out in the woods, you know, trying to start a log down hill. Thinking I could get a better purchase on it from the lower side, I tackled it there with my log-rolling hook and threw my weight on the lever. She started, she did, but as luck would have it, before I could get out of the way, she rolled right over me. It hadn't been for a lot of small limbs and brush lying in the road, which lifted her up, she'd crushed me flat. As it was I got up without a broken bone, but with some mighty bad bruises."

"Then you were all right," said his auditor. "Not by a blamed sight stranger. I took cold, rheumatism set in, and, if I hadn't heard of DENSON'S CAPSINE POROUS PLASTERS and used 'em, it's my opinion I should never have made another trip. But the Capsine took hold quick, and I'm about as good as new. But there's one thing you can calculate on—I shall never wrestle with another log unless I have the advantage of the ground. For, as I told you before, if it hadn't been for them brushies I'd been smashed so you could 'a sold me for a door mat."

The Capsine is the thing for rheumatism. It doesn't keep you waiting. The word CAPSINE is cut in the center of the genuine. Price 25 cents. Seabury & Johnson, Chemists, New York.

At the west end of the building a yard is being fenced off for the female patients. Upon two pleasant afternoons, within the past week, they have been given the men's yard for a couple of hours.

The Way to do It.

The Silver State, of Thursday last, thinks this is way to do it: "The Board of Commissioners of Washoe county have been requested to employ outside counsel to assist the District Attorney in prosecuting the Savings Bank cases. This leads the Reno JOURNAL to express the hope that the day will come when Washoe county will elect a District Attorney who can attend to the county's business without aid from other counsel. We suggest to the JOURNAL as the proper course to pursue to realize its hopes, that the people of Washoe, who have to pay the expenses of outside counsel to assist the District Attorney, prevail upon one of the several lawyers of this county to remove to Washoe and then elect him District Attorney. All our lawyers are Democrats, it is true, but they are capable and can perform the duties of District Attorney without outside assistance. Therefore to insure the election of one in Washoe, should he be prevailed upon to move there, the JOURNAL would have to act differently from what it did last Fall before election, when it told its readers, that the Republican candidate for District Attorney of Washoe, who is now the incumbent of that office, was a capable lawyer. We fear, however, that the JOURNAL's partisan zeal exceeds its desire to elect a District Attorney who can attend to the county's business without aid from other counsel" and that if a competent lawyer from Humboldt should move to Washoe, it would pursue its usual course and use its influence to defeat him because of his political opinions."

The Supreme Court has affirmed Judge Rives' decision in the case of Fred Barnes against W. W. Woodberry of White Pine county, to the effect that if the home ranch is in one county and the cattle are grazing at large and range off into another county, they are assessable in the county in which the home ranch is situated, and not in another county in which they are found grazing.

Cheering News for Eureka.

The Sentinel has information that as soon as the Denver & Rio Grande Company complete their road to Ogden, and finish necessary buildings there, they will start in to extend their road west, and it is understood that the extension alluded to will be the Eureka & Colorado River Railroad, which will run through Egan Canyon, in White Pine county.

Emigrant travel, westward continues lively.

Just Lovely.

There are so many handsome things in Nathan's stock of clothing that one is almost bewildered in attempting to make a selection. It's a good plan to determine beforehand how much you wish to invest in a suit of clothes and then look at garments at or under that figure. You thus avoid the chance of becoming fascinated with higher cost things than your pocket-book will permit the indulgence in. There's something in knowing how to choose; there's more in knowing where to buy.

In the Neck Again.

The Virginia Chronicle does not seem to be accepted as authority. The Genoa Courier says:

The Virginia Chronicle of April 16th, misrepresents our Senator, Hon. E. F. Dangberg, regarding his vote on the Melarkey bill. The record is the best evidence, and shows that Mr. Dangberg did not vote for indefinite postponement on the Melarkey bill. We further wish to state that our Senator needs no defence on our part, as he stands above reproach in this community.

Washoe county has employed Colonel Ellis to assist in the prosecution of Crockett and Kinkaid. An appropriation of $1,000 was made for this purpose. Our Commissioners only gave Clarke $200 to prosecute Coombs and some of our citizens complained.—Carson Index.
